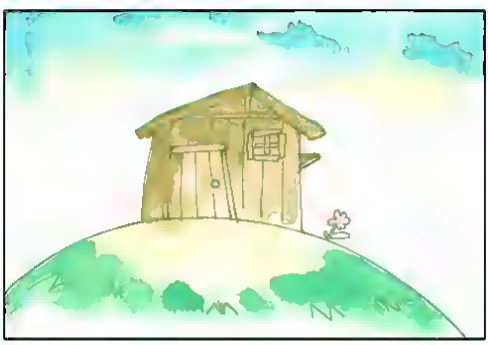
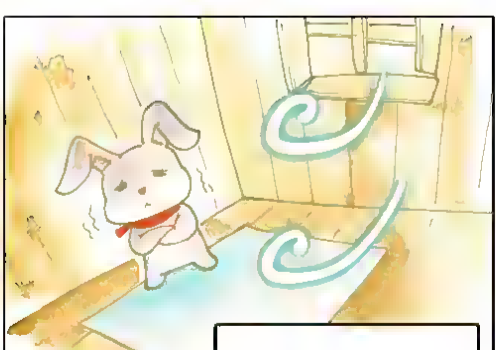
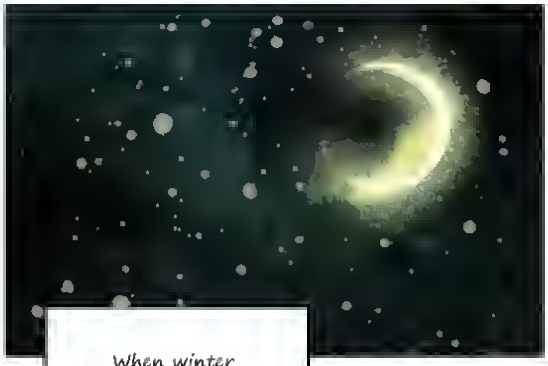
A fairytale everyone in this country knows. There was once a nice rabbit that lived on top of a hill.

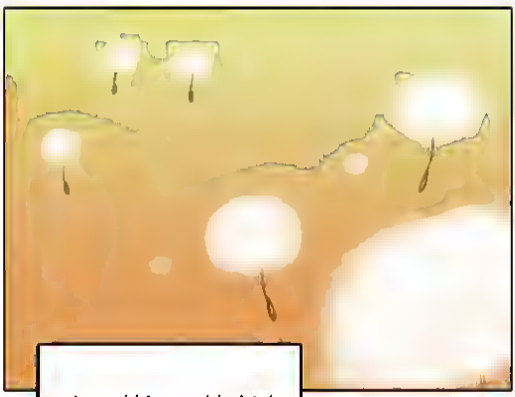




Because the rabbit's house was on a hilltop, there were cold drafts that blew in from the windows.



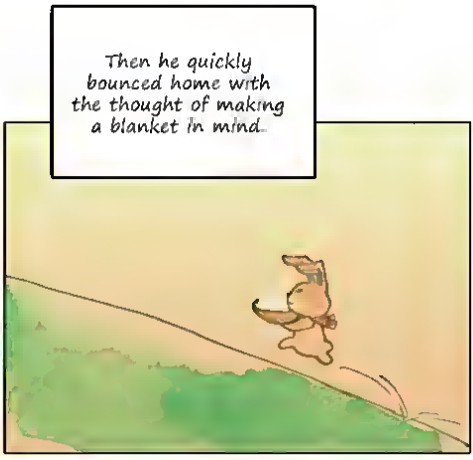
When winter came and snow fell, the rabbit felt like it was freezing to death.



The rabbit would think of the neighboring hill covered in blossoming dandelions.

The feel of the soft wind... Right! He decided to make a warm blanket

The rabbit went to the neighboring hill and filled a basket with the dandelion seeds.

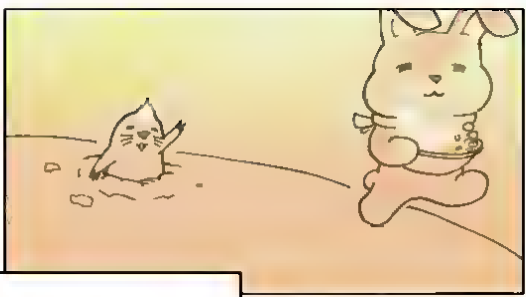


Then he quickly bounced home with the thought of making a blanket in mind.

On his way home, a white bald mole popped out of the ground! How surprising! The mole said this.

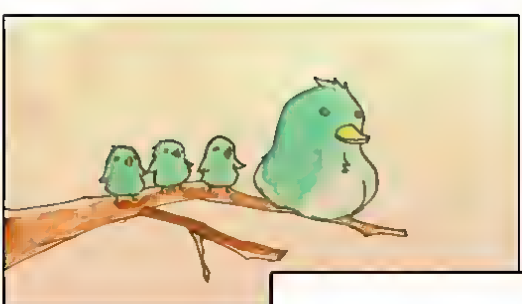
Kind rabbit, because of my hair loss recently, I've been thinking of making a wig. Can you lend me some dandelion seeds?

The kind rabbit immediately gave him some dandelion seeds. The mole seemed like he desperately needed them.



The mole now had an awesome wig. In return, he gave the rabbit some nameless seeds.

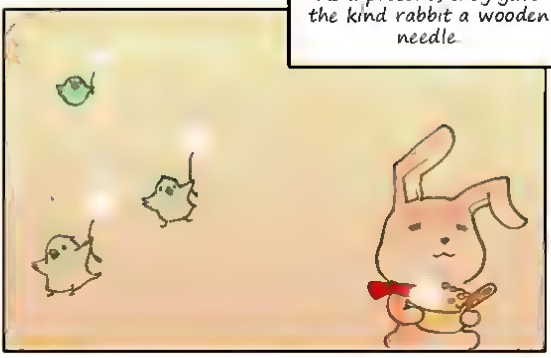
The kind rabbit continued on his way home in high spirits and on his way, he saw mint colored birds sitting on a branch.



The mother mint colored bird said "Kind rabbit, can you lend us some dandelion seeds so that my babies can fly better?"

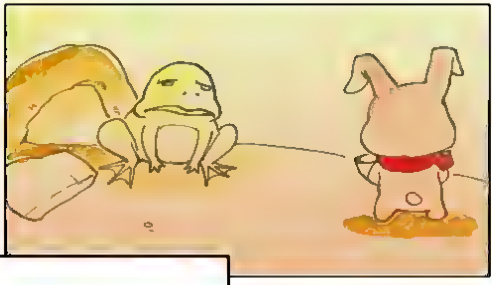
The kind rabbit readily gave them some dandelion seeds. It seemed like the little birds really needed them.

The baby birds each took a seed and rode the wind, swaying from side to side. As a present, they gave the kind rabbit a wooden needle.



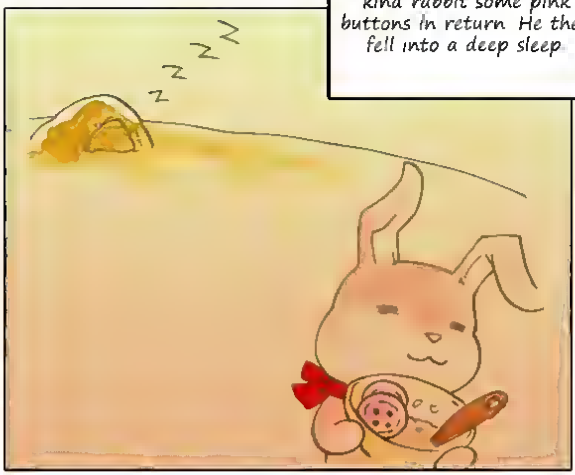
In happier thoughts, he continued going home. But on his way, he met a yellow frog.

He said "Kind rabbit, can you lend me some dandelion seeds? My pillow is so hard I can't get any sleep!"



The rabbit readily gave him some seeds. The yellow frog seemed like he really needed them.

The yellow frog gave the kind rabbit some pink buttons in return. He then fell into a deep sleep.



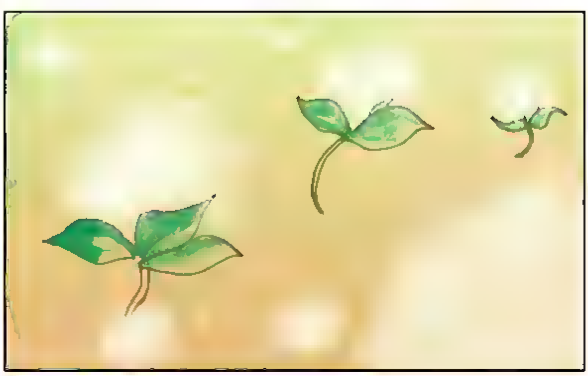
By the time the rabbit arrived home, there weren't any dandelion seeds left. He shared all of it among his friends.

But, using the needle and buttons that he got from his friends, he made an awesome blanket and filled it with the unnamed seeds.

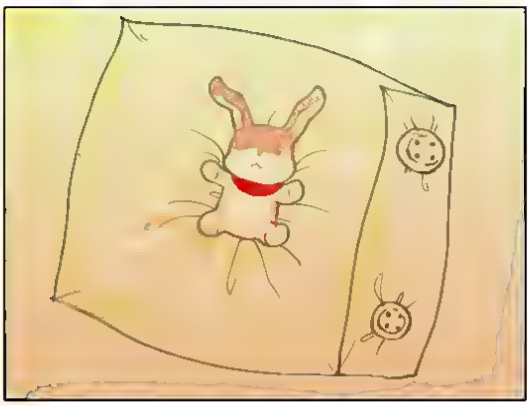
Then, he washed it and left it in a place with lots of sunlight.

Much time passed. When warmed by the sunlight, the water-filled seeds began to grow into flowers.

But what's this? Those unnamed seeds were cotton seeds. Fluffy and warm cotton filled up the rabbit's blanket.



The kind rabbit who helped his friends received a very soft, warm blanket.



The kind rabbit was happy.
